[REDACTED] who has furnished reliable information in the past, furnished the following information on December 8, 1965.

[REDACTED] made the following comments concerning the present situation in Cuba, allegedly based on information received during his visit to Communist China from Chinese Communists and Cuban Communists who support the Communist Chinese position:

Russia does not consider Cuba to be a Communist country and considers Cuba to be included among those countries that consider themselves to be "unaligned."

The trip made by Cuban leader RAUL CASTRO to Russia and other Communist countries was for the purpose of having Cuba accepted as a member of the group that have signed the Warsaw Pact. RAUL CASTRO failed in this mission.

The formation of the Cuban Communist Party by Premier FIDEL CASTRO was done for the purpose of being able to join those Communist countries that form the Soviet Bloc, thus forcing Russia to defend Cuba as a brother country. CASTRO believes that Cuba will be abandoned by Russia.

According to Cuban Communists who support Communist China, the formation of the Cuban Communist Party has been a maneuver by FIDEL CASTRO, and was an action taken without having consulted with the USSR in order to force the USSR to defend the Cuban position and not to force Cuba to surrender to the United States.

FIDEL CASTRO, in order to demonstrate his loyalty to the USSR, has been dismissing supporters of the Communist China position from public office and has even imprisoned some of these individuals.

According to [REDACTED] and his sources, the USSR intends to abandon Cuba, which will force Cuba to deal with the United States.

POLITICAL SITUATION IN SPAIN

From the lowest economic classes to the most prominent, all say that Spain is the most orderly and tranquil nation. Older people, remembering the civil war, consider any alteration in public order as impossible. The general question, "What will happen when FRANCO dies," is answered by these people that only the head of the government would change, but the establishment would remain the same.

Unquestionably, Spain has the best police in Europe at present, but since there are Socialists, who in turn are used by the Communists, the youth are restless, and if there were a change in the person who leads, there would be repercussions.

There are Communist outbreaks at the University of Madrid under the influence of some professors. Although they are quite limited, they work under excellent discipline, and they take advantage of every opportunity to guide the student body. It is expected that during the final months of the academic year (March to June), counting on the fact

ECONOMIC SITUATION IN SPAIN

There are fears that the young army officers are not in solid support of the high officials, because of their discontent with the high cost of living.

The unclassified worker, the taxi driver, for example, is in difficult economic straits, because they have to work two eight-hour shifts to live. The same thing is true of the lower-level public employees. On two occasions, people were seen who drove taxis after office hours to make ends meet. These people are thoroughly disgusted with the government, because they blame the government for the high cost of living, in spite of the government's effort to lower it. Most Spaniards are discontented, but mainly for economic reasons.

The farmer and the unskilled worker do not earn enough to lead a decent life.

Agriculture has not developed along with industry in Spain, due mainly to primitive methods used in cultivating the land. Spain lacks agricultural machinery, silos, and proper refrigerating apparatus. If this is added to the disproportionate consumption caused by the tourist invasion, which is equal annually to 50% of the Spanish population, it becomes necessary to import massive amounts of food, with the resulting shrinking of foreign exchange.

Since the government is sponsoring industrial development in Spain, they must import machinery (either rebuilt or new), and this causes an imbalance of payments. Since this plan has to continue for five years, the government is trying very hard to keep a proper balance of payments. This year they expected a deficit of one hundred million dollars; nevertheless, with the income from tourism, even the pessimists expect a deficit of only thirty million, and there may even be no deficit at all.

Re: FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - SPAIN - CUBA

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

Spain is making desperate efforts to deal with the Common Market, but she is always opposed, especially by Italy, which is fighting the sale of citrus products. Through the opposition of the Socialists in Belgium, France, and Italy, Spain will not be able to enter the Common Market until FRANCO is no longer governing, and they will not even be able to obtain preferential treatment, as Turkey does.

~~Due to the above, Spain is obliged to negotiate trade agreements with the Communist nations. That is why one sees the advertisements for Czech and Bulgarian plants and machinery.~~

A number of years ago, the Spanish Government began to build apartment buildings for workers, at low rents. In spite of the fact that the rents are very low ($8.00 a month), the workers who live in them complain that the construction is very poor and there is a great deal of dampness. Criticism of everything is an old Spanish custom.

For the same purpose, until recently, the government has been helping builders with 30% of the cost as a "loss fund," with the condition that these apartments could not be sold at higher prices than those fixed by the government. It should be noted that moderate prices were established, and there was no bribery.

~~There has been a tremendous volume of building in Madrid, in spite of the paper work required and the high cost of land. For fear of inflation and devaluation of the peseta, the government temporarily suspended help to the builders, but since it is a lucrative business, and the apartments and homes are sold before building is begun, even without long-term credit, with 50% paid before occupancy, and the remainder in 2½ years, the builders continue demolishing old houses and building new ones.~~

The banks discount notes up to 18 months, and there is a dangerous business going on. Friends sign notes for each other to make loans, and they are discounted in different banks. Presumably the banks know about this, and they may even support this activity.

The amount of selling in Madrid makes one ask how the stores can be so full, considering the small salaries of most people. The answer is that the Spaniard spends 60% of his income on food and drink. The bars are full until dawn.

The salaries of sales people in stores are about 3,000 pesetas a month ($50.00). Taxi drivers earn about 90 pesetas a day ($1.50). Nevertheless, the salaries of private chauffeurs are 6,000 pesetas a month ($100.00.) To this must be added the social benefits ordered by the government, which go up to 25% of the salary.

The price for buying apartments wavers between 1,500,000 pesetas ($25,000.00) to 4,000,000 pesetas ($66,000.00), and the odd thing is that without long term credit, it must be paid in three years.

The apartments for workers, aside from those built by the government, are sold on easier terms, and the prices are lower, because the government helps out. Payment terms run to ten years, because the workers' organizations (retirement funds and banks) will give credit for the purchase.

People who rent furnished apartments for the middle classes must pay from $150.00 a month, to $500.00 furnished.

PUBLIC CONSTRUCTION IN SPAIN

The Spanish Government has just passed a law authorizing highway construction under a toll system, and they plan two superhighways, one to the north and the other to the south, both from the French frontier.

The Conference specifically dealt with, and adopted, Article 13, which was a universal declaration on human rights, and CASTRO, now as Red dictator of Cuba, disregards all human rights, even some which were formerly respected by military dictators in Nicaragua, Guatemala, Santo Domingo, and Cuba.

If any Cuban states he does not want to go to the United States because he has a son of military age, a photographer and newsmen are immediately brought to handle publicity concerning these Cubans who are so "dedicated" that they do not desire to go to the United States.

MARIO GARCIA INCHAUSTEGUI, Delegation to Rome

On November 8, 1965, [REDACTED] reported that CMQ Radio of Havana announced on November 6, 1965, that Cuban Ambassador, MARIO GARCIA INCHAUSTEGUI, departed for Rome, Italy, accompanied by JOSE GOMEZ ARGUDIN, Permanent Ambassador to the Office of the United Nations in Europe; Engineer PABLO LEON ECHANDI, Technical Director of Agriculture and Cattle Raising; SEVERINO MANZOL, Cuban Charge d'affaires in Italy; LUIS HERNANDEZ OJEDA, Director of the National Fishing Institute; and FRATERNIDAD BRIONES of the Federation of Cuban Women. The above were to attend conferences on agriculture and food in Rome beginning November 20, 1965.

Cuban "Meddling" in Puerto Rico

On November 8, 1965, [REDACTED] stated "El Mundo", Havana daily newspaper under control of the Cuban Government, announced that JUAN MARI BRAS, leader of the Movement for the Independence of Puerto Rico, made a statement thanking Cuba for her efforts to have Puerto Rico included on the agenda of the Committee on Decolonization. He stated that none of the member states on the Committee dare to defend the United States position.

RE: FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

It is a matter of record that Cuba has meddled in Puerto Rican affairs and encouraged opposition to the United States in Puerto Rico since CASTRO's advent to power. He immediately surrounded himself with long-time leaders of the Nationalist Party of Puerto Rico, such as LAURA MENESES de ALBIZO CAMPOS, her children, and JUAN JUANBE JUANBE, usually described as her Minister of Foreign Relations. As a direct affront to the United States, CASTRO named these two individuals as representatives of Cuba to the United Nations in New York.

Cuba On November 15, 1965, [redacted] stated that "El Mundo" of October 17, 1965, published a message of thanks to RAUL ROA, Cuban Minister of Foreign Relations, for his defense of Puerto Rican independence. [redacted]

He stated that "During recent years, the heart of Puerto Rico has spoken through the voice of Cuba in the United Nations". b2 b7D b7C

Cuban "Meddling" in Viet Nam

[redacted] stated there have been various news articles concerning this matter [redacted]

"Hoy", which was the Communist Party organ until consolidated with "Revolucion" and renamed "Granma", which is now self-described as the official organ of the Central Committee of the Cuban Communist Party. Cuba widow of the Communist hero would soon visit Cuba as an official guest and would wear a Cuban militia uniform and beret given her by the newsmen. They also promised that the pictures they took in Viet Nam would soon be shown in all of the theaters in Cuba and the rest of Latin America.

Cuban "Meddling" in the Dominican Republic

[REDACTED] stated that Cuba has consistently supported JUAN BOSCH and has loudly decried United States intervention in Santo Domingo.

On November 21, 1965, [REDACTED] ^{Dom. Rep.} stated that CMO Radio, Havana, had stated [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] confident that the Tri-Continental Congress to be held in Havana would find the means to stop the imperialists and neo-colonialists, especially in the Dominican Republic. There have been numerous other references to the Tri-Continental Congress and many Cuban broadcasts and news articles designed to fire hatred and resentment against the presence of United States troops in the Dominican Republic.

On November 26, 1965, [REDACTED] stated that VILMA ESPIN, wife of Cuban Minister of Defense and Assistant Prime Minister, RAUL CASTRO, had attended the International Federation of Women meeting in Salzburg, Austria. She stated she hoped that all of the women in the world might enjoy the rights which the Cuban women have achieved. She declared she was proud of the fact that five women are serving on the Central Committee of the Communist Party of Cuba. She called for support of the battle for women's rights in the Congo, Guinea, South Africa, and throughout Latin America. She concluded by screaming for support of the Vietnamese cause and stated, "We must fight for peace".

In connection with the above injection of Cuba into numerous affairs of other nations, [REDACTED] stated on November 18, 1965, that Cuba has been extremely busy in promoting good relations with the new African nations, and especially those which are already either indifferent or opposed to the United States. He stated the Cuban daily newspaper "Granma" on October 18, 1965, described a visit by 26 African students from Algeria, the Congo, Angola, Mali, Uganda, South Africa, Kenya, and Guinea, who visited the Federation of Cuban Students, the Workers Palace, and the Cuban Revolutionary Confederation of Labor.

Defections from CASTRO Regime

[REDACTED]

However, in spite of these precautions, some desertions have continued. In addition, Cuban exile groups are constantly working to win over the largest possible number of CASTRO officials, and by getting them to give up their posts abroad, discredit FIDEL CASTRO and his government.

On December 27, 1965, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] advised Special Agents (SAs) of the New York Office (NYO) of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). [REDACTED]

He advised he was against the regime of Fidel Castro in Cuba and decided to leave Cuba to avoid the repression suffered by the Cuban people under Castro. b7C/D

[REDACTED]

He advised that certain information pertaining to military conditions in Cuba had come to his attention, and that he desired to make this information known to the United States Government. In this connection, he advised as follows:

fire at the Southern coast of the United States. One of these caves is located in an area known as Topaste which is situated near Havana. This cave is known by the name of "El Cura". [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] informed him that large transporters frequently move, what appears to be missiles, in and out of the general area. b7C/D

He learned, concerning the Naval Armament of Cuba, that there are numerous patrol crafts stationed in small coastal towns in the Northern and near Western coastal areas. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] described them as being approximately forty feet in length and riding extremely low in the water. On the after section of these vessels, there are two missiles mounted. He would estimate the diameter of these missiles to be approximately twenty-four inches. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] he would estimate their top speed to be approximately fifty miles per hour.

[REDACTED] that troops based in Oriente Province are in possession of machine guns which have perforated barrels and which are fed by a disc type magazine mounted on the top. [REDACTED] that Militia men stationed in the Havana area carry pistols of Communist-Chinese manufacture which closely resemble the United States Colt .45.

[REDACTED] he learned that there are approximately one half million men under arms. He believes the general consensus among the Cuban people is that, of this number, only one hundred thousand are faithful followers of Castro and would fight if the need arose. The remainder of the one half million for the most part are private citizens who were forced to become members of the Militia due to economic and social pressures. For this reason, he believes that should the need arise for sustained action and combat these members would not fight a prolonged battle.

He advised that the economic condition of Cuba is critical and that food, clothing, medicine, and other necessities are extremely scarce and are rationed.

He has no information concerning the identities of any pro-Castro exiles who are presently in the United States.

FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

Informant b7c/d

On January 10, 1966, [REDACTED]

furnished the following information:

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] advised he found the City of Havana functioning much as it had prior to his leaving Cuba. English-made buses and Spanish-made trucks were in sight everywhere and there appeared to be no difficulty in obtaining public transportation. He noted that armed guards and militiamen were not in evidence throughout the city as they had been in 1961.

[REDACTED] advised the Cuban adults are almost 100 per cent against the communist regime; however, the same is not true of the large part of the population under twenty years of age who have received indoctrination as they were growing up. [REDACTED] stated that while it was evident the people were against the communist regime, active resistance had disappeared and he did not encounter any revolutionary organizations working actively. The people appeared to have given up and believe only the United States can free Cuba. The only information received in Havana concerning the Cuban exiled people is by means of short wave from the United States.

FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA

The people of Havana seem to be occupied primarily in the search for food and clothing for their families and many of them are occupied in searching for a way to leave the country. b7c/d

[REDACTED] advised he received the impression that the Castro regime felt it had won the battle. [REDACTED] the only way Castro would be overthrown would be by an invasion by the United States and [REDACTED] was convinced the international situation would not condone this type of action by the United States. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] the Castro regime had overcome the most difficult time of the economic crisis which had occurred in the year 1963. [REDACTED] the improvement in the economic situation had resulted primarily from their present ability to buy merchandise from European countries like Spain and England. [REDACTED] there were many French, English, and Spanish products utilized in Havana and very few Russian products were in evidence. These products included food, clothing, and spare parts for cars.

[REDACTED] that the United States does not have any other alternative than to accept co-existence with the Castro regime and they look forward to the day when they can visit the United States and their relatives in the United States will be able to visit them in a manner similar to agreements worked out by the United States and other socialist countries in Europe.

[REDACTED] were completely convinced it is only a question of time before Cuba and the United States establish some sort of co-existence and they expressed the opinion that it would be only a short time until two or three more countries in America would belong to the communist bloc. In this regard [REDACTED] noted a large sign in the Plaza Cirrica which stated, "Santo Domingo Segundo Pais Socialista de America (Santo Domingo Second Socialist Country of America)."

[REDACTED]
they were aware that the majority of the people in Cuba were not with them but they felt that by means of terror they could maintain order in Cuba until such time as they were able to indoctrinate the youth along the Communist lines.

They pointed out this had been done successfully in other countries and they felt time was on their side.

SUBJECT: POSSIBLE CONSTRUCTION OF DREDGING
EQUIPMENT FOR USE IN HAVANA HARBOR

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED

DATE: 2/17/66

SEE REVERSE SIDE FOR
ADD. DISSEMINATION.

Enclosed for the Bureau are six copies of an LHM. No local dissemination has been made of this memo.

It is realized by the Tampa Division that if [REDACTED] is in fact operating for the Cuban Government, he would be in violation of the Registration Act, however, [REDACTED] indicated that [REDACTED] had left for England and it was his theory that [REDACTED] was only doing this as a means of bettering his bargaining position with E. E. Sharp & Sons, Ltd.
in obtaining employment with that company. [REDACTED] indicated to [REDACTED] that he would be a representative of Sharp in Mexico. [REDACTED] requested to know if this would be a violation of the law if they designed a dredge for an English firm knowing that the dredge would ultimately be used in Cuba. He was advised that the FBI could not state whether this would be a violation of the law and that he should contact the Commerce Department regarding this matter.

Described as Offensive Exile Chief Reports Cuban Missile Bases

Miami (UPI) — Cuban exile leader Orlando Bosch claimed Saturday that Soviet technicians have built four underground intermediate-range "offensive" missile bases in Cuba's Pinar Del Rio province.

Bosch, leader of the Militant Revolutionary Insurreccional Recovery movement, said the bases contained a total of 19 missiles that have a range of at least 1200 miles.

Bosch said he received the report of the missile bases from "clandestine underground sources in Cuba," but added the reports had been "verified."

Released Map

The exile leader released a map pinpointing the alleged bases.

The largest base, which has eight intermediate-range missiles, is located on the "El Americano" farm at the foot of the Rosario Mountains about 13 miles from the port of Esperanza, Bosch said.

He said the second base, which has five missiles, is located on the "Mil Cumbres" farm near the Matahambre copper mine.

There are three missiles at a launching site in a huge cave, called "Los Portales," on the "La Guira" farm in the center of Pinar Del Rio Province, he said.

The fourth missile base also contains three missiles and is located on the "Susset" farm about three miles from the town of Artemisa, he said.

Linked by Tunnels

Bosch claimed the Susset missile base was linked by tunnels to the San Antonio De Los Banos military base about 20 miles away in Havana province.

This is the third time in recent weeks that Cuban exiles have claimed there are offensive missile bases on Fidel Castro's island. The White House denied the first two claims.

Bosch said "I remember in the October (1962) missile crisis that the U.S. government had the same reaction about exile claims that the Soviet Union had installed missiles in Cuba."

The first claim of offensive missiles in Cuba came in Miami Feb. 19 from former Cuban ambassador Spruille Braden.

Braden said that "five Soviet freighters unloaded missiles in the port of Mariel" about 25 miles west of Havana.

A representative of the Inspection Department of the Mexican Department of Immigration, Mexico City, was sent to Yucatan and Quintana Roo, Mexico, in January, 1966, to investigate a complaint alleging that Cuban fishermen who arrived in Mexican ports in this area were annoying American tourists as well as the local inhabitants.

The investigation disclosed that in late January, 1966, there were approximately 32 Cuban fishing boats at Isla Mujeres, a Mexican island off the coast of Quintana Roo. Since the crew of these boats varies from eight to twelve persons and at least half of the crew comes ashore when these boats arrive, there are often between 200 and 300 Cuban seamen ashore on Isla Mujeres at the same time. Since the population of Isla Mujeres is very small, it is almost inevitable that incidents occur.

The Cuban seamen are usually dirty and poorly dressed and make remarks to both the local women and the women tourists who visit the island.

The investigation disclosed that various prominent residents on the island, including hotel operators, businessmen, and government authorities, have divided opinions concerning the visits of so many Cuban seamen.

ENCLOSURE 109-12-210-5410

Among those who reportedly oppose the landing of these Cubans, whose boats arrive at Isla Mujeres under various pretexts such as bad weather, lack of water and food, etc., is [REDACTED], a representative of the Territorial Government of Quintana Roo. [REDACTED] mentioned, as an example, that he was an eye witness when a group of Cuban seamen made vulgar comments to a girl about 13 years old who passed by them on a bicycle. [REDACTED] said that he reprimanded the Cubans for their actions. b7C

However, various individuals, including [REDACTED] and apparently [REDACTED] on the Island of Mujeres, receive money from the Cuban Consul in Merida, Yucatan, Mexico. These individuals reportedly receive a payment of between 30 pesos ($2.40 U.S.) and 50 pesos ($4.00 U.S.) for each boat they inspect. These payments are made, allegedly, by the Cuban Consul in Merida through the fishing inspector, who also takes charge of purchasing food, spare parts, and other items needed by the boats, on which the fishing inspector also makes a profit. b7C

Reportedly, when the Cuban Consul cannot travel to Isla Mujeres, he sends the necessary money to the captain of the port, who makes the necessary payments to the other persons mentioned.

The individuals mentioned above denied these charges and stated that they would prepare a document signed by various persons denying these accusations. Among the persons who allegedly had signed the document was [REDACTED] of the Hotel Zazil-ha, who, when interviewed, stated that he would write to the Mexican Secretariat of Government concerning the matter. b7C

The Inspector who conducted the above investigation recommended that, when Cuban boats are compelled to make emergency visits to Isla Mujeres in order to obtain provisions or for any reason, only the captain and first mate be permitted to land.

* GUANTANAMO: A BASE AND A POLICY

Political Matters - GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba

Under the massive range of the Sierra Maestra Mountains, where Fidel Castro created his revolutionary rural base of operations almost a decade ago, the United States continues to hold an important toehold on the island of Cuba. The 45 square miles which make up the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo may serve, in the future, as an important political beachhead for the recovery of Cuba for the forces of freedom.

Gitmo, as this base is known to the Navy, is an important politico-military card in the hand of the United States. But the U.S. is not playing any political or military games here at this time. Absolute correctness, within terms of the treaty signed in 1903, is the national policy in force. Every effort is made to avoid incidents and to refrain from what might be construed as provocative action. Guantanamo Bay is being used in its traditional role as a fleet training area for the U.S. Atlantic Fleet. Deep water in the huge bay and right offshore enable American warships to exercise almost as soon as they pull away from their piers or weigh anchor. Located on the southeast coast of Cuba, Guantanamo is not on the primary shipping lanes used by Red bloc vessels--most of which follow the northern coast to Havana.

Guantanamo could be very useful to United States or Inter-American forces in the event of fresh communist activity in the Dominican Republic this summer or as a staging area for peace-keeping forces that might be dispatched to Haiti in the event of unrest in that turbulent next-door neighbor of the Dominican Republic. It seems, however, that use of Gitmo as a marshaling area is out of the question unless there is a drastic change in U.S. government policy. When the communist-led rebellion flamed in Santo Domingo last spring, Guantanamo was not used by American forces involved and refugees were taken to Puerto Rico, not Gitmo. Indeed naval vessels of friendly foreign governments are not received at Guantanamo these days, though the U.S. continues to respect a treaty provision that foreign merchantmen bound for Cuba may proceed into the inner bay that constitutes Cuban waters. This means that Red bloc shipping is allowed to pass through the waters of the naval base to the sugar port of Boqueron, Cuba. 109-12-210-5441

The absolute strictness with which the 1903 treaty provisions are interpreted in Washington clearly indicates the determination of the Johnson administration to avoid fresh entanglement in Cuba while there is a hot war raging in Southeast Asia. Thus Guantanamo continues to meet the regular training needs of the fleet but, at this time, apparently is not used to support the wider national interests of the U.S. in the Caribbean. Its activities therefore, are circumscribed by considerations of national policy. It is from U. S. South Atlantic ports and Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico--not from Guantanamo--that naval task forces would be supported in the event of emergencies this summer.

Nevertheless, the symbolic importance of Guantanamo is enormous. Gitmo stands for the commitment of U.S. power in the Caribbean. If Fidel Castro could shove the United States out of the Guantanamo Naval Base, he would score a political triumph that would undermine the credibility of American strength and resolution throughout the Latin American world. Because of this fact, there is an ever-present danger of communist surprise attack on the base and a consequent need for the greatest vigilance on the part of U.S. defending forces.

The possibility of a Cuban attack on Gitmo may be dim, according to some calculations. Some observers reckon that the Soviets would veto any plans Castro might have for such an attack, out of fear of a confrontation involving nuclear weapons. Much as the Soviets want the U.S. to be removed from Guantanamo, they surely realize that an attack on the base would lead to a major reaction by the United States.

On the other hand, serious questions arise from the military measures Castro's regime has taken along the 17-mile fence line that forms the boundary of the base. Riding along the perimeter, I could see that the Cubans have installed many new pillboxes and trench positions. They have had heavy machinery at work clearing cactus and shrub palm in a wide strip around the base. What is the purpose of these costly activities at a time when Cuba is in a desperate economic condition? Certainly, Castro knows that the U.S. does not intend to attack from Guantanamo. Even if the U.S. currently had a design for recapturing the island, it would not begin a campaign in Oriente Province, which is the end of nowhere in Cuba.

Some observers regard the Castroite military measures either as a form of psychological warfare directed at the United States, or as activities carried out for home consumption--to give the Cuban people a beleaguered feeling. But if this is all part of a war of nerves, it is a very expensive operation for a poor country--and the rewards for such warfare seem almost non-existent.

Some Cuban refugee elements arriving in Miami believe that Castro, in a fit of desperation or in danger of being overthrown by powerful rivals within the Cuban regime, actually might order an attack on Guantanamo as a final suicidal act. It is against such a contingency that the U.S. must be prepared. Fortunately, the U.S. preparations seem very thorough.

Aside from men attached to the Marine barracks at Gitmo, sailors are organized in emergency defense forces and a hard-core defending force is provided by a battalion of Marines on rotation from Camp Lejeune, N.C., for four months at a time. These Marine defending forces have heavy tanks and artillery. They have myriad defense positions throughout the hills on the base; a system of watchtowers and minefields provide added warning and protection. The ships that conduct training exercises at Gitmo are a key element in the defense of the base. In the event of an attack, fire support from the guns of these ships would back up the Marines.

It would be the task of the Marine defenders and the fire support ships to hold off the attackers until Marine reinforcements could be flown from North Carolina bases. A strategic area, which would require especially determined defense, would be the jet airfield on the leeward side of the base. In terms of the overall defense of Guantanamo, the most unfortunate feature is the separation of the base into two parts by the bay which runs deep into Cuban territory.

At the moment, Castro is not harassing base personnel. There haven't been any recent incidents involving Cuban militiamen throwing rocks at Marine guards. But the Cubans man their pillboxes periodically and a helicopter flight along the fence line reveals the barracks the Cubans have built for their troops. The principal instrument of harassment in the past was the cutting off of the water supply from Cuban territory. The installation of a $10 million plant for desalting ocean water now gives the base self-sufficiency in its water supply.

Such is the current situation at Guantanamo. Policy for this base is shaped in terms of the overall strategic situation facing the United States, not only in the Caribbean but around the globe. We have, in short, a minimum commitment in Cuba--the maintenance of the Guantanamo base against political or military assault. This minimum commitment may be the only feasible posture at a time when our trained and ready ground forces are almost completely engaged in the Far East. However, Cuba remains a festering sore in this hemisphere and the time surely will come when corrective action will be needed.

Part of the tragedy of Cuba is that we think in terms of deterrents to further Castroite military aggression, but register a blank when it comes to politico-military determinants. U. S. policy toward Cuba is essentially negative, whereas the communists have positive goals. The Tri-Continental Conference held in Havana in January, which was attended by delegates from 86 countries, drafted plans for forcing communist rule on the rest of the Latin world. As early as the 16th century, Cuba was the island base from which the Spanish set out to conquer Central and South America and Castro and the communists are well aware of the strategic value of his island bastion.

The United States, for its part, must prove its credibility--in terms of national power and effectiveness--by positive action against Cuban communism. The mere possession of Guantanamo will not continue to have great weight in the thinking of Latin nations if they see that we intend to do nothing with our toehold in Cuba, if they judge that Guantanamo has been neutralized except as a training facility for naval vessels. Great military and naval bases are those that are understood to be bases for offensive action. Okinawa, in the Pacific, is regarded as such by the Chinese communists.

The principal deficiency in our country's Caribbean posture is a lack of understanding of the opportunities for political warfare. Indeed this is a global deficiency, with Viet Nam being the one spot where an understanding of the inter-action of political and military operations is being developed.

Ideally, the U. S. should be carrying out political warfare in eastern Cuba, while the armed forces stand firm in Guantanamo. Castro's revolution began in Oriente Province and its failure shows up there in glaring fashion. The Fidelista movement, aside from its communist component, was built around a conflict between the impoverished countryside and metropolitan Havana. But the Castro revolution has been a failure in the countryside. The sugarfield workers are worse off than before the revolution. One has only to look across the Guantanamo fence line at the little sugar port nearby and see the crude shacks and outhouses that characterize rural Cuba after seven years of revolutionary rule. If the United States had given adequate stress to the cold war education of the American people and responsible officials, the time our country has had would have been used constructively to weaken the Castro regime and prepare the way for a successor government that would want to be a good neighbor of the U.S. Unfortunately, far too many Americans in and out of Washington think of the cold war struggle in narrow, separated categories.

The Marines manning defensive positions along the Guantanamo fence line understand what to do if Castro's militiamen launch an attack against the base. There is no question but that our navy destroyers would respond promptly to lob shells at an attacker or that airlift planes would have the first reinforcements on the base within six hours. But all these actions are limited and defensive and do not belong to the class of actions designed to exploit our national opportunities for adding to the security of the United States and to the security of our good neighbors in Latin America.

A policy of rigid diplomatic correctness and military firmness in defending small, well-defined areas can be justified for certain periods and under certain conditions. Ultimately, however, the United States must master and employ the political warfare that is the only answer to communism's ability to leapfrog fences and national boundaries and create subversive conflicts inside nations such as the Dominican Republic. Unless the U.S. gains this counter-revolutionary capacity in political warfare, a base such as Guantanamo will lose much of its utility and symbolic value.

Reference Milwaukee airtel to Bureau 4/1/66 with enclosures to Miami and Bulet to Miami 4/28/66.

Transmitted herewith are 14 copies of LHM to Bureau, two to Milwaukee and one to Chicago, dated and captioned as above. The five extra copies to the Bureau are for individual files on [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]

Subjects were interviewed for all information of possible intelligence value, as well as to elicit information which might indicate their true political sympathy, by SAs [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]

The fact that subject [REDACTED] was paid by the Cuban government to [REDACTED] and paid by the Canadian sellers to [REDACTED] from them is a typical Cuban business operation.

His account of the stupidity of ANTONIO NUNEZ JIMENEZ and [REDACTED] is believed accurate. The Bureau has full background on ANTONIO NUNEZ JIMENEZ.

UNREC COPY AND COPY OF ENCL FILED IN

The description of the amorality of [REDACTED] and the illegal dealings of [REDACTED] have been reported by others upon their return from Cuba. b7C

[REDACTED] characterization of FIDEL CASTRO "as the heart and soul, destroyer and undertaker" of the revolution is believed to be precisely accurate. This same state of utter and complete disorder existed in Cuba in 1959 and 1960, due to the total lack of administrative ability of FIDEL CASTRO on the one hand, and his constant meddling and upsetting of plans on the other. b7C

The account regarding how [REDACTED] gave subjects the "cold shoulder" when they arrived in Cuba, has been repeated many times in the stories of Cubans who lived in the United States and returned to Cuba, only to find their own relatives and friends in Cuba looking for the opportunity to leave Cuba and go to the United States. b7C

The cases of these subjects parallel those of many other naturalized United States citizens who left the United States, worked for the government of FIDEL CASTRO, and then returned to the United States with no loss of United States citizenship, or other punitive action taken against them.

Both [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] appear to be sincerely convinced that FIDEL CASTRO is the greatest disaster that ever happened to Cuba. She was extremely upset because her small daughter would not talk in school, due to all the screaming and shouting of other Cubans. [REDACTED] in saying he wished all Senators and politicians could go to Cuba, and would there have to work on some kind of serious project in the face of such total chaos, specifically mentioned Senator FULLBRIGHT and Senator ROBERT b7C

F/ KENNEDY, who have been advocating a softer policy towards Cuba.

One copy of instant LHM is furnished Chicago, as subjects resided there and Chicago had an active investigation of [REDACTED] prior to his departure for Cuba. b7C

[REDACTED] conducted discreet pretext interviews of knowledgeable Cuban sources in the Miami area, and contacted [REDACTED] of the house rented to [REDACTED] but was unable to ascertain anything concerning [REDACTED] b1 b7C
[REDACTED] stated [REDACTED] are very quiet, have no visitors, and appear to be very eager to find work. (S)
[REDACTED] noted there are no other Cubans residing in the entire area of West Hollywood where subjects reside.

Instant cases on [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] are being placed in an RUC status with this letter. (S)

[REDACTED] and one copy to USAFAD, Ojus, Florida, who have requested copies of general intelligence reports from Miami Office of FBI. b1 b7C

In [REDACTED] she married [REDACTED], a war veteran returning from the European Theater. She recalled that he soon thereafter went to Havana to visit relatives, and then returned to the United States. For a considerable period of time he suffered from war psychosis and was quite ill.

b7C

Involvement in Cuban Politics

She presented Certificate # [REDACTED], showing she became a naturalized United States citizen in the District Court of Chicago on [REDACTED]. She stated both she and her husband avoided political discussions. She did not recall that he ever engaged in any lengthy or heated discussions concerning Cuban politics, until after the Bay of Pigs invasion in April, 1961.

b7C

She stated that practically all people in Cuba, and many in the United States, at first thought that Fidel Castro would do great things for Cuba. Following the Bay of Pigs invasion, her husband felt that a great injustice had been done to Cuba.

Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

He thereafter went to Canada in about May, 1961. From there she and her husband were given visas to go to Cuba. She denied knowledge that she was not supposed to go to Cuba without a specific endorsement by the United States Department of State in her passport, and stated her husband had never told her it was prohibited to go to Cuba.

Hog Purchase Failure

Her husband first obtained a Letter of Credit on the Cuban Government, which she thought was for about two or three hundred thousand dollars, but she did not know the amount for sure. The money represented by this Letter of Credit was to be used in the purchase and shipment of hogs to Cuba. She stated her husband became obligated for the purchase of approximately 2,000 hogs, after which he was denied permission by the United States Department of Commerce to ship the hogs to Cuba. His time then ran out, the Letter of Credit was revoked, and he lost all the money they had saved.

Arrival in Cuba

She stated that on June 4 or 5, 1961. she, her husband, and the two children, arrived in Cuba on a direct flight from Montreal to Havana. They arrived in Havana at about 10:00 P.M., and were held until 2:00 P.M., as a result of some kind of misunderstanding. There was allegedly no Medical Examiner who had to examine her, her husband, and the children, and the delay was due to this. She stated, however, that at 2:00 A.M. they were released and no Medical Examiner ever appeared. At that point she would have gladly returned to the United States. She stated the children slept on the floor on some cushions while they were waiting for the alleged Medical Examiner.

Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

She stated their second shock came when they proceeded to a small downtown hotel in Havana; after resting, [REDACTED] contacted [REDACTED], who gave [REDACTED] a very "cold shoulder". It developed that the business of [REDACTED] [REDACTED], had already been intervened, or seized, by the Cuban Government.

b7C

[REDACTED] had already gone to the United States. [REDACTED] and her husband moved into the apartment in the Kohly Section of Havana which had been left vacant by [REDACTED] [REDACTED]

b7C

Further Difficulties with the Cuban Government

The Cuban Government eventually got around to taking an inventory of all vacant property and found that [REDACTED] and her husband had no legal right to occupy the apartment vacated by [REDACTED] and a militiaman gave her twentyfour hours to vacate the apartment. Her husband was working for [REDACTED] and his immediate Chief was [REDACTED], who was in charge of [REDACTED]. CUBA

b7C

The name of [REDACTED] appears frequently in Granma, self-described as the official organ of the Central Committee of the Cuban Communist Party. [REDACTED] is described as a member of the Central Committee of the Cuban Communist Party, and has the rank of [REDACTED]

b7C

She stated they went to [REDACTED] and told him they had to have a place to live. They were moved into a house at [REDACTED] between [REDACTED] [REDACTED] where they resided until [REDACTED]

b7C

Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

She stated that in Cuba she was a housewife only, and that her husband went to Canada to [REDACTED]. He was paid 500 Canadian dollars per month and all expenses, and she was given 250 Cuban pesos per month to live on in Cuba. She paid 40 pesos per month rent for the house.

b7C

b7C

The Cuban Government obligated her to take the little girl to a psychologist. After the first trip, the little girl told her mother that seeing the doctor again would not help, as "the Cubans make so much noise I am not going to talk."

Further difficulties encountered by [REDACTED] involved her use of the English language. She was called a "gusana" (worm: a name applied to everyone in Cuba who was anti-Castro). Cubans continually demanded to know why she spoke English to her children, and the head of the Committee of Defense of the Revolution (CDR), who lived across the street from her, was constantly checking upon her every movement. She stated the Chief of the District in which she lived was a man named [REDACTED], and the head of the CDR in her immediate block was a colored woman named [REDACTED] told her she should join the militia, work in a factory, march, and perform guard duty. She refused to perform any of these services.

Difficulties of Her Husband

For two and a half to three years her husband, [REDACTED] traveled to Canada [REDACTED]. He returned to

b7C

Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

Cuba each three months. In Canada, there was another [redacted] ^{CUBA} named [redacted] who was an extreme communist radical and frequently accused her husband of being a spy for the United States Government. This bitterness was increased because meetings of indoctrination were held in the Cuban Trade Commission offices in Canada, at which time there were speeches and readings from Marxist books. Her husband stayed out on the farms to avoid the meetings, but on one occasion [redacted] forced him to attend a meeting by threatening him with a gun. b7C

On the next trip to Cuba, her husband said he either would have to be relieved, or his wife would have to be allowed to accompany him, as he was very sick, and too long separated from his wife and family.

[redacted] allegedly gave [redacted] permission to take his wife and family to Canada. [redacted] was assured that his wife and family would shortly be allowed to travel to Canada after he returned to Canada to [redacted] [redacted] b7C

She stated she went to the Ministry of Foreign Commerce, but was given the run-around about her permit to leave. She then went to the Foreign Relations Ministry and was actually received by Raul Roa himself, who is the Minister of Foreign Relations. She stated Roa was very courteous to her, but told her it was Foreign Commerce, and not his department, which was holding up the issuance of her permit. Her husband then called [redacted] ^{CUBA} [redacted] of Fidel Castro, and told her he was going to quit and [redacted] in Canada if his wife was not returned her passport and given permission to join him. b7C

Her passport and permission to leave Cuba came almost immediately following that telephone call, but in the meantime, the Ministry of Foreign Relations had endeavored to force her to renounce her American citizenship. She stated they claimed this would greatly facilitate the issuance to her of a Cuban passport with a visa to Canada, but she refused this arrangement.

She stated that since she endeavored to take nothing out with her, there was nothing for the Cubans to take from her, although they searched her luggage closely. She further stated that since they did not know she was going to the United States, but thought she was going only to Canada, she was not approached by any Cuban intelligence agents and no request was made of her to perform any intelligence mission.

After her arrival in Canada, her husband had a complete nervous breakdown and was hospitalized for a week. He subsequently traveled from Montreal to London, to Paris, and back to Montreal. He had a very difficult time in Paris because the Cuban Government endeavored to force him to go to Moscow, Russia. He had to contact the American Consulate in Paris in order to return to Montreal.

In addition to the above-mentioned Certificate of Naturalization, [REDACTED] presented cancelled United States Passport # [REDACTED] issued [REDACTED]. She stated her other passport and her husband's Certificate of Naturalization had been retained by the Cuban Government.

b7C

She had no information concerning any kind of Cuban intelligence activities, but stated that a communist named [REDACTED], described as [REDACTED], had been almost constantly with her husband as his security officer. There was also an American citizen, [REDACTED], who travels frequently between Havana and Canada, who is an employee of [REDACTED] in Havana, located near the road from Havana to Rancho Boyeros Airport.

EL
He claimed he never engaged in political discussions, but admitted that he occasionally went to the house of [REDACTED] in Chicago. This individual is [REDACTED], who at one time was [REDACTED] Havana daily newspaper "Hoy", formerly self-described as the official organ of the Cuban Communist Party.

b7C

CW 6A
[REDACTED] stated [REDACTED] had frequent gatherings at his house. On one occasion, while there, he met [REDACTED], whom he described as [REDACTED] became interested in [REDACTED] and made inquiry as to whether or not he might [REDACTED] to Cuba. The conversation led to the establishment of a Letter of Credit in the amount of $190,000 for him, and he thereafter contracted to [REDACTED]. However,

b7C

Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

as explained above, he was not allowed to [REDACTED], because of a prohibition imposed in the interim by the United States Department of Commerce. He was extremely upset and bitter about this, and continues to harbor some resentment, as he felt he had completed the transaction and obligated himself on contracts before the prohibition was passed. b7C

He allegedly could not recall the names of other persons he met at the home of [REDACTED] in Chicago, but stated there were numerous Cubans who met there. He insisted these were social gatherings and not political, but admittedly the main topic of discussion was Fidel Castro and what he was doing for Cuba. b7C

Departure for Cuba

In about May, 1961, he proceeded to Canada and from Canada to Cuba. He stated he traveled around in Cuba, [REDACTED]. He finally told [REDACTED] that he and his wife had to eat, and he was thereafter paid 150 pesos per month. He was also paid for four of the previous six months which he had already worked. b7C

Cuban Confusion and Inefficiency

He stated he would feel that all the money he lost was worth while if all United States Senators and other politicians who endeavor to convince citizens of the United States that Cuba is alright and a good place to live, could also take a trip to Cuba and have to endeavor to work there.

~~NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF AGRARIAN REFORM~~

He stated that Carlos Rafael Rodriguez, for many years the principal leader of the Cuban Communist Party, is in charge of INRA. Under him is a leading young communist, [REDACTED], in charge of [REDACTED]. However, the whole show is run by Fidel Castro, who can only be regarded as completely irrational. CUBA b7C

Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

He stated he knew from personal experience that as much as $25,000 has been paid for herd bulls used in Cuba. Fidel Castro has then shown up at the government farm and ordered as many as six of the most expensive herd bulls sent to peasants out in the country, where they were attacked by ticks and fever, and shortly thereafter died.

Since Castro is an absolute dictator, no official dares to mention that such a foolish act is his fault; but, instead, the official blame is placed on the peasants who are arrested and incarcerated.

[REDACTED] stated this kind of foolishness permeates the entire Cuban nation and everything is run by Castro. He stated he knows very well, for example, that land has been prepared for the planting of sugar cane; thereafter, Castro will appear and order the planting of a crop which is absolutely inadequate, and will not grow at the proposed site. b7C

As another example, someone mentioned they should grow [REDACTED]; and thereafter, without any technical exploration or examination of the subject, Castro ordered a [REDACTED] stated he personally made a trip to the west coast of Canada, [REDACTED] and shipped them to Cuba, where they all died because they could not prosper in a tropical climate. b7C

[REDACTED] is personally acquainted with Antonio Nunez Jimenez, and [REDACTED]. He described them as "absolute nuts". He stated Antonio has long been a member of the Cuban Speleological Society, and a communist. He was the first Director of INRA, and made so many mistakes that the farm and livestock program was a complete failure. He is now head of a Cuban scientific institute where he is more or less harmless to government programs. b7C

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

CUBA

Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

He stated the destructiveness of the communist regime of Castro is simply appalling. They have junked all the wonderful hand-carved mahogany furniture which was covered with hand-tooled leather in the Cuban Presidential Palace. Beautiful furniture, paintings, marble statues, and other works of art, have been piled into warehouses. There was a large sale of such items to a Canadian purchaser. [REDACTED] was behind this sale to purchase for a commission. He stated the sale was to a man named [REDACTED], who is [REDACTED] in [REDACTED].

b7C

He further described [REDACTED] as nothing more than an errand boy and a go-between.

As time goes by, Castro becomes more outrageous and vilely rebukes employees and officials of his government in front of other officials. He has heard Castro call [REDACTED] every kind of dirty curse-word known to the Cuban version of the Spanish language.

b7C

He described [REDACTED] as a person who was very close to Castro, educated in the United States, intelligent, speaks perfect English, but was a very poor administrator. He has been thrown in jail in the Isle of Pines because the farms entrusted to his administration did not do well.

b7C

He stated Castro is the heart and soul of the Cuban revolution but, at the same time, he is the destroyer and undertaker, and that he is digging his own grave as it becomes more and more apparent to the Cuban people that ignorance, hunger, discontent, loss of human dignity and communism go hand in hand.

Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

Cuban Trade Commission

He stated he was in Cuba for only a few months; most of his time was spent in Canada while working for [REDACTED] the latter [REDACTED], was [REDACTED] security guard while in Canada. [REDACTED] estimated he bought over three million dollars worth of [REDACTED] for the Cuban Government. He was able to make some money because, in addition to the money paid him by the Cuban Government, he was able to get a commission from [REDACTED] in order to be able to sell [REDACTED] to Cuba. b7C

He and [REDACTED] had an extremely bitter argument in [REDACTED] offices in Canada and, in fact, they were never friendly. The only way he was able to keep [REDACTED] "off his back" was to threaten to tell [REDACTED] that he was interfering with [REDACTED] and this project is Castro's personal project. He stated Castro frequently comes down to meet [REDACTED] and inspects [REDACTED] when they are unloaded in Cuba. b7C

There are eight or nine members of the Trade Commission in Canada; he was the only one of the group who spoke English. All of them were afraid that if [REDACTED] left because of mistreatment at the hands of the other members of the Commission, Castro would become angry and imprison them all. b7C

He stated that in addition to his 500 Canadian dollars per month salary, he was paid all expenses, and as noted above, received a commission or, really, a kick-back, from [REDACTED]. He had a government account in the Royal Bank of Canada in the main office in Toronto, as well as in Montreal, in the name of [REDACTED]. He b7C maintained his personal account in a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada at Decari. The government never checked his account.

[REDACTED] was in charge of the Commission as of August, 1965. He described this individual as one who does not speak English, and stated the majority of the members of the Commission did not even know how to buy a hat in Canada.

b7C

[REDACTED] stated [REDACTED] is the most completely amoral person he has ever known. He is still in charge of [REDACTED] and consequently has all the warehouses full of refrigerators, motors, art objects, such as mentioned above, and jewelry. All of the income from the sale of these articles abroad and the importation of refrigerators and motors as "legal contraband" appear to be the personal business of [REDACTED]. [REDACTED] has probably stolen as much from the Cuban Government as any Cuban has ever stolen in the past.

b7C

Cuban Intelligence Matters

He stated the Cuban Intelligence (DSE) agents usually travel as members of the Cuban Diplomatic Corps, but he declared he knew none of them by name. They occasionally have individuals allegedly buying car parts and he believed the car parts buyers are usually DSE agents, as they buy very little and appear to know even less about car parts.

He mentioned, as did his wife, a person known by the name [REDACTED] whom he met when he was at the National Hospital in Cuba, and whom he subsequently saw traveling on an airplane from Cuba to Canada. He stated he has heard that

Foreign Political Matters - Cuba

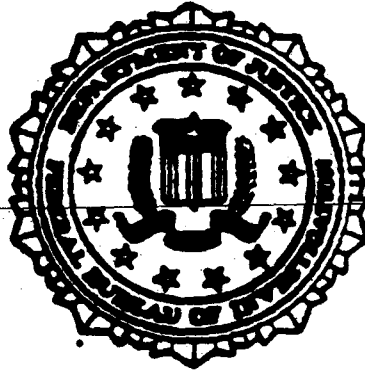

she comes to the United States, but he does not know this for a fact, and stated she had never mentioned coming to the United States. He did not know her family name, but stated she is about [REDACTED] to [REDACTED] years of age, 5'2-3" tall and very slender or slight build. He described her further as being of medium complexion, but stated he had never observed the color of her hair or eyes. He does not know that she has any intelligence mission, but may simply be a Castro sympathizer who works in the hospital in Cuba and occasionally travels to Canada for a vacation. b7C

He stated he did not know he had to have permission to travel to Cuba, but could give no satisfactory reason for having gone from the United States to Canada and then to Cuba, rather than traveling direct via Miami, since in 1961 there were still regularly scheduled flights from the United States to Cuba.

He denied that he had ever renounced his American citizenship or that he had taken an oath of allegiance to Cuba or any other foreign government. He stated he became a naturalized United States citizen in Hagerstown, Maryland, in [REDACTED]. He had defended the United States in World War II and would again defend the United States if called upon to do so. He stated he made a terrible mistake in leaving the United States as it is now difficult for him to obtain employment. He stated the Cuban government had retained his Certificate of Naturalization and claimed it was lost. b7C

[REDACTED] presented an American Foreign Service Card of Identity and Registration, which described him as being 5'9", brown hair, dark brown eyes, medium ruddy complexion, weight 150, medium build, speaks good English and Spanish. His wife was noted to be [REDACTED] years of age, born [REDACTED], in [REDACTED]. He is 5'1" tall, weighs 133 pounds, has dark hair, brown eyes, medium dark complexion, and strong stocky build. Both are endeavoring to find employment in the Miami area, but thus far have been unsuccessful. b7C

TO : Director, FBI (109-12-210)

FROM : Legat, Buenos Aires (109-5)(P)

SUBJECT: CUBAN POLITICAL ACTIVITIES
FPM - CUBA

DATE: 9/26/66

ReBUElet 7/29/66 and BULEt to Miami 9/14/66 entitled, "FOREIGN POLITICAL MATTERS - CUBA, IS-CUBA."

Recontacts with pertinent sources in Uruguay and Argentina since reBUElet have disclosed no specific activities relative to Cuban activities as such in either of these countries.

The Cuban issue continues to be a live one in communist and leftist circles and in their press in Uruguay. The situation in Argentina is somewhat different inasmuch as the Communist Party of Argentina (CPA) and its various front and collateral organizations have become virtually inactive under the new military regime which assumed power on 6/28/66.

In view of the instructions set forth in reBULEt of 9/14/66 all sources are being instructed to remain doubly alert for pertinent information under this heading and to immediately report any such information coming to their attention in the future.

This office will continue to follow and report developments.

Ten Dancers in Cuban Ballet Defect, Ask Asylum in Paris

By Edward Hotaling

PARIS, Nov. 6.—Ten dancers skipped away from the Cuban National Ballet this weekend and asked for political asylum in France because of "the arbitrary persecution which has developed in our country."

It was the largest group of artists to defect here in recent years. It was also an embarrassing blow to the Havana government, which had given the successful company a proud sendoff when it left to open in the prestigious Fourth International Dance Festival here last Wednesday.

While ambassadors and ministers turned out to watch prima ballerina Alicia Alonso and the 72-member company at the Théâtre des Champs-Élysées, the ten young men—including one of the company's stars, Eduardo Recal—were plotting their own unscheduled number behind the scenes.

From Wednesday through yesterday, they slipped away in small groups from the Hotel Palais d'Orsay, where the Moissejev Ballet from the Soviet Union is also staying.

One of their representatives appeared Friday morning at the Foreign Ministry, a few doors away from their hotel along the Seine, and formally applied for asylum for the group.

It was obvious Friday night at the theater that something was up, and it was more than the ballet's gala performance in honor of the Ecole de l'Air, with Prime Minister Georges Pompidou and Defense Minister Pierre Messmer on hand.

Four of the dancers in the cortege of the Duc of Courlande, in the first act of Miss Alongo's Giselle, did not seem quite the same.

In fact, they were replacements, as must have been noticed by the group of Cuban embassy functionaries who surveyed the orchestra and stage. The Cuban ambassador himself was sitting near the stage, with his arms folded.

The show went on, but by yesterday morning the other dancers had also disappeared. The French police announced they had been given 15 days' provisional asylum pending a final government decision, which is expected to be in their favor.

The defectors released this statement to the press:

"... We are not opposed to the revolutionary action of the present regime.

"But we deplore the arbitrary persecution which has developed in our country—contrary to the very principles of the revolution—which affects anybody showing the least sign of nonconformism either in his way of life, his religious opinions, or simply his clothes.

"A constant danger threatens each individual in measures taken by the authorities in the name of a pretended socialist morality.

"It has become impossible for us to work as artists in such a climate of threats and incertitude."

The Paris press has given considerable publicity to the defection of ten Cuban dancers who were members of the Cuban National Ballet. One of the ten was one of the male stars. The group was appearing in the Fourth International Dance Festival and were playing before ambassadors and ministers, including the Cuban Ambassador.

The ten have been given 15 days' provisional asylum pending a final government decision. A spokesman for the group said, "We are not opposed to the revolutionary action of the present regime." He pointed out that the group was opposed to "the arbitrary persecution which has developed in our country."
